DAYS OF CONTENT, DONE.

A month of posts for your clinic. One a day, ten minutes each, and every one of them ends on a question people want to answer.

START HERE.

This is a month of posts for your clinic, one a day, and each one takes about ten minutes. I made it for clinic owners who are brilliant in the treatment room and would rather do anything than stare at a blank caption box.

HOW TO USE IT

1. Find today's day and read the hook. That is your first line, so keep it exactly as it is.
2. Add one real detail from your clinic. A client moment, a room, a product, a story. Anything true.
3. Finish with the question on the page. Comments are what the algorithm loves, so this bit matters.
4. Add five hashtags for your area, post it, then tick it off on the sheet at the back.

On carousel days, make your last slide say: Tag a friend who will get it.

A QUICK WORD ON STAYING SAFE

Say what a treatment is and how it feels, and leave results promises out. Keep prescription medicines out of your captions altogether. If you are ever unsure, check it against your own compliance rules before you post.

Anything in [square brackets] is a gap for you to fill with your own detail.

WEEK 1 · DAYS 1 TO 4

Hello, it's me.

Week 1 is about being known, so people can see who is behind the clinic. Faces, stories and a bit of fun.

SELFIE PHOTO

Hello, I'm [your name] and I look after faces for a living.

I'm [your name] and I [your role] in [your town]. My favourite moment at work is when someone catches herself in the mirror and smiles.

CLOSING LINE What is the first thing you notice when you look in the mirror?

REEL

Three things I wish every new client knew before she sat in my chair.

Mine are: you can ask anything, you can change your mind, and you can say you need to think about it.

CLOSING LINE What would you add to my list?

CAROUSEL

Things I have heard in my treatment room that made me laugh out loud.

Today a client said [your funniest recent line] and I am still giggling about it.

CLOSING LINE What is the funniest thing anyone has said to you at an appointment?

PHOTO

My clinic at 8am, before anyone arrives.

This is the quiet bit I love. Kettle on, lights low, [one detail of your room]. Everything is reset for the next lovely face.

CLOSING LINE Early bird or night owl, which are you?

WEEK 1 · DAYS 5 TO 7

Hello, it's me.

CAROUSEL

Skin myths I am retiring today.

Myth one: [a myth you hear every week]. Here is what I really tell my clients.

CLOSING LINE Which skin myth did your mum or nan swear by?

REEL

Get ready with me for a day in clinic.

Hair, coffee, a bit of lippy and off I go. This is the real start of my working day.

CLOSING LINE What is your one product morning must have?

TEXT POST

Sunday reset: what I do before Monday arrives.

I light a candle, lay out my week and give myself ten minutes of nothing. You are very welcome to borrow it.

CLOSING LINE What does your Sunday reset look like?

TIP FOR THE WEEK

Use your own face and your own words. People follow people, and your clients are looking for you.

WEEK 2 · DAYS 8 TO 11

Come on in.

Week 2 gives people a peek behind the door, with your first treatment spotlight on day 9. Treatment days finish by inviting people to comment for more info.

CAROUSEL

Your skin in your 40s, a friendly chat.

Skin changes its mind every few years. Here is what shifts and what really helps.

CLOSING LINE What did your skin do in your 40s that surprised you?

TREATMENT PHOTO OR REEL

The treatment my clients book on repeat.

It's [your most rebooked treatment]. It takes about [time], it feels like [honest description], and clients tell me they leave feeling like themselves on a really good day.

FINISH WITH Comment [TREATMENT NAME] for more info

REEL

Quick tour of my treatment room.

Come on in. This is where the magic happens. Look out for [one thing you love about your room].

CLOSING LINE What is the first thing you look at in a new clinic?

CAROUSEL

Questions you are too polite to ask, answered.

I'll go first with the one I get most: [your most asked question].

CLOSING LINE What have you always wanted to ask but never did?

WEEK 2 · DAYS 12 TO 14

Come on in.

PHOTO

This is a real day in my clinic.

Tissues, tea, a diary full of crossings out. It is lived in and I like it that way.

CLOSING LINE Tidy desk or organised chaos?

STORY POLL

Settle this for me.

Would you rather have a treatment that takes an hour, or one that takes ten minutes? Vote in the poll.

CLOSING LINE Which one did you pick, and why?

TEXT POST

Self care is allowed to be small.

A proper face wash. A glass of water. Ten minutes with the door shut. That all counts.

CLOSING LINE What is your smallest self care win this week?

TIP FOR THE WEEK

Treatment posts work best with a real photo of your room, your hands or your products. Show what is true.

WEEK 3 · DAYS 15 TO 18

Remember when.

Week 3 leans on nostalgia, kind words from clients and a second treatment spotlight on day 18. Nostalgia gets people commenting faster than almost anything else.

REEL

Things we all did to our skin in the 90s.

Sun beds before a night out. Face scrubs that felt like sandpaper. I see you, I was there too. Now we know better and I am here to help.

CLOSING LINE Which 90s beauty habit do you secretly miss?

CAROUSEL

What a first appointment really looks like.

Step one is a chat and a cuppa. Step two is me listening. Step three is a plan we make together, and nothing happens that you have not agreed to.

CLOSING LINE What worries you most before a first appointment?

This message made my week.

[Paste a kind message, with the client's permission.] I read it twice and then showed the whole team.

CLOSING LINE Who made your week better recently?

DAY 18

Treatment spotlight: [name of treatment].

Best for [concern], takes about [time], feels like [honest description]. Clients often book it ahead of [an occasion].

FINISH WITH Comment [TREATMENT NAME] for more info

WEEK 3 · DAYS 19 TO 21

Remember when.

REEL

A day in the life of a clinic owner.

Appointments, admin, a lunch eaten standing up and a mountain of towels to wash. Glamorous, honestly.

CLOSING LINE What does your job look like behind the scenes?

CAROUSEL

Five signs you are due a skincare reset.

Your products have stopped working. Your make up sits differently. Your morning routine is a rush. Sound familiar?

CLOSING LINE Which sign made you nod?

PHOTO

Sunday check in.

How are you really doing this week? I ask my clients all the time, so today I am asking you.

CLOSING LINE How are you, honestly?

TIP FOR THE WEEK

Reply to every comment within the hour if you can. That is where the friendships, and the bookings, begin.

WEEK 4 · DAYS 22 TO 25

Let's talk.

Week 4 turns the chat towards booking, gently. Day 25 is your third treatment spotlight and day 28 is an open Q&A.

REEL

The question I ask every new client.

It is: what would make you feel most like yourself? The answers always make me smile.

CLOSING LINE How would you answer it?

CAROUSEL

What to do the week before your appointment.

Drink plenty of water, jot down your questions, and tell me anything that has changed since we last spoke.

CLOSING LINE What is on your pre appointment list?

PHOTO

Small business owner confession.

I [a relatable admin struggle]. I am learning to ask for help and I am better for it.

CLOSING LINE What are you finally learning to hand over?

A little pick me up for your skin before party season.

If your face needs a refresh before [event or season], here is what I would suggest: [your treatment].

FINISH WITH Comment [TREATMENT NAME] for more info

WEEK 4 · DAYS 26 TO 28

Let's talk.

DAY 26

REEL

Pack with me: what is in my clinic bag.

[Three things you always carry] and a spare cardigan, because treatment rooms are always chilly.

CLOSING LINE What is the one thing you never leave the house without?

DAY 27

CAROUSEL

Things I tell my mum about skin.

Wear your sunscreen, drink your water, be kind to yourself. She still does not always listen.

CLOSING LINE What advice from your mum did you finally take?

DAY 28

STORY Q&A

Ask me anything.

I am answering questions about [skin, treatments and clinic life] all day. Pop yours in the question box.

CLOSING LINE What is the question you are dying to ask me?

TIP FOR THE WEEK

Save the questions you get on day 28. They are your next month of content, written for you.

DAYS 29 AND 30

Thank you.

The last two days say thank you and look back, which makes people feel part of your month.

DAY 29

PHOTO OR REEL

A thank you, from me to you.

This month I [one thing you did], and it is all down to the lovely people who follow along. Thank you.

CLOSING LINE What are you proud of this month?

DAY 30

CAROUSEL

What this month taught me.

[Three honest lessons from your month, one per slide.]

CLOSING LINE What did your month teach you?

AND THEN

When you reach day 30, start again at day 1 with fresh details. The hooks work a second time round because new people see them and old friends enjoy the sequel.

Your tick sheet.

Print this page and tick each day off as you post. Watching the month fill up is oddly satisfying.

WHAT NEXT?

If you posted even half of these, you have already beaten most clinics. I mean that kindly, because I have seen a lot of them.

Some clinic owners love doing this themselves. Others would rather have a whole month written in their own voice, with their photos and their name on it, and get their evenings back. I do that too, and I would love to hear which camp you are in.

Send me a message on Instagram at

and tell me which day of the 30 was your favourite to post. I read every single one.
